

INDIANA HISTORY BULLETIN

for SEPTEMBER 1968

volume 45

number 9

Published Monthly by
the INDIANA HISTORICAL BUREAU Indianapolis

COVER: This interesting structure is located in the village of Rome on the banks of the Ohio River. Construction was begun in 1818; any Indiana history buff will note the marked resemblance to the Corydon Capitol Building. The building was used as a courthouse until the county seat was moved to Cannelton. Subsequently, it served as an academy and then as a public school. There is enthusiastic interest in Perry County in preserving the Rome Court House for its historic and architectural values.

THIS ISSUE: The list of state senators, 1851-1967, which was begun in the August Bulletin is concluded in this issue. Your attention is also invited to the one-day history conference scheduled at Wabash, Indiana, on Saturday, September 28.

STATE SENATORS OF INDIANA – 1851 - 1967

M – Z

This listing concludes the roster of Indiana State Senators begun in the August issue of the Bulletin. Since Indiana legislators for the period, 1816-1851, are easily available in Indiana Election Returns, 1816-1851, published by the Historical Bureau in 1960, they have been omitted here. The list was compiled by Mrs. Shirley McCord of the Bureau staff.

FOOTNOTES, I - II

1. The Indiana Historical Society's recently released reprint of the county maps from the Illustrated Historical Atlas of the State of Indiana [1876] has been enthusiastically received. There has been a substantial over-the-counter sale at the list price of $5.00.

2. Noble County Historical Society volunteers have been busy "scrubbing cells, washing bars, and burning birds' nests" as a part of the cleanup necessary to change an abandoned jail into a live historical museum. Best wishes!

3. And speaking of jail museums, Hancock County has a log jail museum.

4. Ralph Stark reported that the Lebanon marshal rounded up a thousand stray hogs roaming the streets of the town in July, 1876. The garbage problem was handled differently in those days.

5. The Indiana Historical Bureau published Indiana Election Returns, 1816-1851 in 1960. This volume listed members of the Indiana General Assembly. Since this title is easily available in public and other libraries, the list of state senators begun in the August Bulletin and completed in the September issue excludes those of the period, 1816-1851.

6. The many friends of Miss Gayle Thornbrough will be pleased to know that she is again working for the Indiana Historical Society as Director of Publications and Library. Her office is room 404, State Library & Historical Building; her phone is 633-4876.

7. Andrew Jacobs, Sr., former Indiana Congressman, recalled in a speech at the Rome courthouse celebration, August 10, a conversation with another legislator in which he said, "The trouble is that there are too many people making history here [Congress] who have never read any!" Between now and the November election you may want to check on the reading habits of your candidates.

8. Do you have some space problems? Both the Indiana Historical Bureau and the Indiana Historical Society will welcome the return of past publications.

9. Some Hoosiers are surprised to learn that a "continental divide" crosses northern Indiana separating the drainage basins of the Mississippi River and the Great Lakes. A roadside marker locating the divide was recently erected in Kosciusko County near Syracuse.

10. Mrs. Robert Carpenter and others have written in praising the new cover format of the Indiana Magazine of History.

11. The August issue of State Government Administration has a feature article on Governor Roger Branigin and the Indiana Capitol.

MILESTONES IN NURSING

A commemorative marker honoring the oldest general hospital and the oldest school of nursing in Indiana will be dedicated at Marion County General Hospital on September 9 at 1:30 p. m. The marker has been provided by the Indiana League for Nursing and arrangements have been made by a committee headed by Sister John Fransis, CSC, of South Bend.

The marker commemorates five significant milestones in nursing. In 1859, the first building of the Indianapolis City Hospital, forerunner of Marion County General Hospital, was completed. In the Civil War years the facility was operated as a military hospital with Sister Athanasius Fogarty and other Sisters of Providence providing the nursing care. In 1883, professional nursing was born in Indiana with the founding at City Hospital of the Flower Mission Training School for Nurses. In 1891, Mae D. Currie, a graduate of this training school, initiated professional home care for the sick poor in Indianapolis. In 1913, Abbie Hunt Bryce founded the Public Health Nursing Association of Indianapolis.

The Indiana League for Nursing should be congratulated on erecting this memorial plaque and focusing attention upon the history of their dedicated profession.
